

Koch Hazard Architects, founded in 1961, is a professional service firm of architects, planners and interior designers located in Sioux Falls, SD. The firm primarily practices in South Dakota, but also provides design services in Iowa and Minnesota.

The firm consists of three licensed architects with four architectural graduates, and a certified interior designer. A support staff consisting of construction administrators, document developers and administration rounds out the Koch Hazard team.

Koch Hazard Architects became a Women-Owned Small Business (over 51% owned and operated) in 2019. Stacey McMahan, AIA, LEED AP BD+C, Keith Thompson, AIA, LEED AP BD+C and Brooke Wegener own and serve in leadership roles at the firm.

The firm is organized to maximize the involvement of leadership in all aspects of the project delivery process. Koch Hazard Architects is committed to client service. Client satisfaction is our measure of success.

Koch Hazard brings to the table a proven team with a long resume of relevant experience, a set of effective processes to draw out needs and desires and translate them into concepts and documents. We will provide overall leadership for the design team.
